

We have had an exciting and productive year despite the perplexing weather systems in the UK! Read about our impressive list of publications, our collaborative artistic creation, how to find us on Twitter, and more information for our contributors.

Thank you to all of our authors, editors, peer referees, Cochrane Collaboration support, and the editorial team, for contributing to a fantastic mid-year publications total.

20th Anniversary Wall Hanging

In 2013, The Cochrane Collaboration celebrates its 20th Anniversary, and we were invited to contribute a patchwork piece for a wall hanging.

Archie and RevMan

The IMS team are continually improving Archie and RevMan, and you can see the latest developments online.

At PaPaS, we have now implemented the use of 'ticket' emails to streamline our editorial process.

We will send you a request via Archie containing your 'task'.

Follow the task link (see below) when you have fulfilled the request and our database will automatically be updated. This means that we can keep your review moving through the system efficiently.

The screenshot shows the Archie Ticket interface. At the top, it says "Ticket" and "This ticket grants Anna Hobson access to the following task:". Below that, there is a "Send comments to Contact Person" button. The title of the task is "Buprenorphine for treating cancer pain". There is a "Comments:" section with a text area containing "I have now sent the comments to the authors. Thanks." Below the comments section, there is a section for uploading files with the text "If you have files to submit in relation to this task, you can upload them here." and "Locate file(s) on your computer:" followed by three "Browse..." buttons. At the bottom, there is a "Please note:" section with two bullet points: "This form cannot be used to check in reviews. Review check-in is done from RevMan or Archie's general web interface." and "Maximum combined file size is 5MB. If you have more than three files you have to zip them together." There is also a "Mark Task as Done" button at the bottom left.

Completed tickets automatically update our records, which ensures we stay up to date.

If you have any questions about this new process, please do get in touch.
