

Accepting the Licence for Publication form

The screenshot displays the Archie website interface with a 'Licence for Publication Form' dialog box open. The dialog box contains the following text:

The Cochrane Collaboration (GB) | <https://archie.cochrane.org/sections/documents/llpForm.jsp?pk=z1503231649571452101136098406910>

RAM has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
EK has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
PW has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
SD has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
TRT has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
NBF has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
NA has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.
ML has no conflicts relating to this review or any similar product.

For transparency, we have received research support from charities, government, and industry sources at various times, but none relate to this review. We are funded by the NIHR for work on a series of reviews informing the unmet need of chronic pain and providing the evidence for treatments of pain.

Special types of work:

- Standard / not applicable
- UK Government work (Crown Copyright)
- US Government work
- National Institutes of Health (NIH) grantees
- Other Government work
- World Health Organization (WHO) work
- Pan-American Health Organization (PAHO) work

Acceptance of Licence for publication

Accept the Licence for publication on behalf of the author

Type the author's name (exactly as recorded in the system: Nadine Attal) for confirmation:

Notes:

Notify the author if any further changes are made to the review prior to publication

Buttons: Submit, Cancel

The background shows a table of reviews with columns: Write Phase, Modified, Type, and Stage. The table lists various reviews, including 'Intervention review' and 'Overview of reviews'.